

Brief Summary

The main concerns of callers to Radio Ergo's independent audience call-in platform this week (12-17 June 2021) included new or continuing damaging locust invasions especially across northern and central regions; drought and water shortages especially in central to southern regions; and floods and disease outbreaks in M. Shabelle. There was also a rise on the previous week in numbers of callers about COVID19, with some people reporting possible cases in their areas. The following summarises the calls by theme.

Locusts – there were many calls about locust invasions from Awdal, Sahil, Togdher, Sanag and Sool regions. Callers spoke of crops and vegetation being destroyed. A farmer in Sheikh, Togdher, warned other farmers to prepare to try to salvage their crops as the locusts were moving in. A caller in Burao said locusts were causing desertification. Some asked for spraying and control measures from the government. There were calls from Qardo and Bari in Puntland, and from several parts of Mudug and Galgadud. A female caller in Dhumodle, Galgadud, called for spraying of large numbers of locusts that had invaded their wheat and watermelon plants. A female caller in Adado said they were suffering from locusts and also drought. Farmers in Beletweyne and Jowhar spoke of locusts wreaking havoc on their farms.

Water shortage – most calls about rain failure and water shortage came from Hiran, Bay, L. Juba and Gedo. There were some others from Galmudug and Somaliland. A caller in Buloburte, Hiran, said the drought had left their livestock without fodder. Callers in Jalalaqsi called for aid due to the prolonged drought. Another caller in Hiran said elderly people had been left behind as families migrated away in search of water. Callers in Baidoa said their crops had failed. A caller in Middle Juba said last year they lost their crops to locusts after rainfall, but this year their crops had failed due to lack of rainfall. Some callers in Kismayo called for water aid. In Gedo, a caller in Luq said people had migrated to Ethiopia due to the severity of the water shortage and humanitarian crisis. In Fahfahdun, a caller said the water shortage had led to displacement, unemployment, and confusion among the youth.

Floods – several callers in Jowhar, M. Shabelle, complained about floods cutting off the town, preventing farmers reaching their fields to plant, causing displacement and unemployment. One caller said toilets had been destroyed. A female caller said they were seeing outbreaks of diseases including diarrhoea, vomiting, typhoid and malaria, as well as malnutrition among children.

Food insecurity – a female caller in Qardo, Bari, said there were food shortages and hunger in the area. Another female caller in Bossaso said food prices were high and they were destitute and had not received food aid this year. In Hiran, a caller in Buleburte said the long siege of the town had led to food shortages and hunger, claiming that three people had died due to lack of food the day before his call. In addition he said locusts were threatening to destroy their farms. A caller in Middle Shabelle said they were reeling from a cycle of disasters including droughts, water shortage, floods and others.

IDPs – a caller in camps in Qardo, Bari, said they had been hit by flooding and had previously been displaced after losing their livestock. They needed aid. A female IDP caller in Wanleweyn, L. Shabelle, said they were facing food shortages.

COVID19 – many callers asked about symptoms of COVID19 and how to distinguish it from flu and other illnesses, and for information on prevention and treatment. Callers in Garowe and Adado wanted access to the vaccine. Some callers in Somaliland asked how people in rural areas could stay safe. Callers in Salahley and Sanag in the north, and M. Shabelle and L. Juba in the south indicated that cases of COVID19 were present or even widespread in their areas. In Sanag, a caller said they had no medicines or oxygen and the Puntland government should intervene. A female caller in Kismayo said one of her relatives had COVID19 but other people were denying it.
