

Brief Summary

The main concerns of callers to Radio Ergo's feedback platform this week (23-29 September 2021) included intensifying drought and water shortages especially across northern, central, and some southern regions; new invasions of locusts in the north; and rising food prices and worsening food security expressed by callers in many parts of the country. The following summarises the calls by theme.

Drought and Water shortages – callers from various parts of Somaliland including Borama, Berbera, Hargeisa, and Hingalol and Erigabo in Sanag said they were facing prolonged drought and lack of water and needed intervention. A caller in Shimbirale in Sanag said they needed water wells to be constructed. A pastoralist calling from Ainabo, Sool, said they were moving back to Gatamo in Togdher as they heard there had been rainfall. Several callers in Nugal and other parts of Puntland said they needed aid because of the drought. A caller in Gelinsor, Mudug, said they were experiencing climate change with drought and rising temperatures. Callers in parts of Galgadud said people and livestock were badly affected. A caller in Dabad said their water pump had broken down. Further south, a caller in Jamame, L. Shabelle, said farmers had not planted this year due to drought and water shortage. He said the price of maize had risen from 4,000 to 50,000 shillings. A caller in Kismayo said their cows were dying due to the drought. Callers in Dollow and Beled-hawo in Gedo said drought was their main concern.

Locusts – there were calls about fresh waves of locusts destroying crops and vegetation especially in Togdher and Sanag. A caller in Burao, Togdher, said they were losing their farms. A caller in Wardher, Sanag, said they had been invaded by locusts and neglected by government and aid agencies. Some callers in Bari also spoke of locust invasions. A caller in Guriel, Galgadud, said the drought had led to lack of livestock fodder and now they were surrounded by areas invaded by locusts that were headed their way.

Prices and food security – callers in Sanag, Galgadud, Hiran, L. Juba and L. Shabelle complained about food price rises and food shortages. In Adado, a caller said there was inflation and they were unable to sell their livestock. In Kismayo, a stall-holder said food prices and the dollar exchange rate had risen sharply.

IDPs and aid – IDP callers in Mudug, Galgadud, and Banadir said they lacked food and water. In Galkayo a caller said their food cards had been stopped. Somalis displaced from Ethiopia said they had been in camps in Abudwak without food and water for long. A caller in el-Afweyne, Sanag, said aid was being taken by mayors and local authorities and they wanted accountability. Another caller in an unspecified part of Central Somalia said a committee was investigating corruption involving food cards.

Livestock – as well as the calls from pastoralists about livestock diseases and deaths, there were concerns about attacks on livestock by wild animals including foxes and hyenas. A herder in Maqor-yar in Bari said foxes were killing their goats. In Sanag, a camel herder wanted to know how to protect his camels from attacks by hyenas.

COVID19 – two callers in parts of Sanag indicated that the virus was spreading and one wanted access to vaccination. A caller in Bosasso urged people to take the vaccine to stop COVID19 deaths. Another in Garowe claimed that he took the vaccine and fell sick, adding that the vaccine needed proper checking.
