

Brief Summary

Calls about weather-related impacts dominated the feedback to Radio Ergo's audience platform this week (2-8 November 2023), with many callers describing the destruction of homes and property and their needs for assistance in districts hit by floods. Some pointed out the risks of disease in the current conditions. On the other hand, a large number of callers noted the benefits of substantial rainfall in their areas leading to healthier livestock and growth of farm crops. The following summarises the calls by theme.

Floods – in Puntland, callers in mountainous Karkar said they needed help after heavy rainfall had caused floods. In coastal Gardafu, one caller cited similar flooding in the area. A caller in Sabawanag, Sool, said flood water was destroying homes and they needed intervention. In Galkayo, an IDP caller said their houses had been destroyed by floods and they didn't have any shelter. A female caller also noted the destruction but was still thankful for the rainfall. In Hiran, callers said the river was overflowing, and many people had been leaving their homes over the past three weeks for higher ground such as El-Jalle. A caller identifying as a refugee returnee from Kenya said their farms in Hirshabelle (unspecified location) had been hit by floods and locusts. A caller in Buleburte said they were swimming in floodwater. In Jowhar, a female caller said due to the floods they were cut off and had no access to jobs. A caller in Buale, Middle Juba, said the river had flooded. In Wanleweyn, Lower Shabelle, a caller said their farm crops had failed due to the heavy rainfall. In Baidoa, Bay, callers said floods had inundated farms and caused displacements. They asked aid agencies to help. A caller in Dinsor said their livestock were not able to access grazing due to the floods. In Gedo region, a caller in Luq said they had been displaced after heavy rainfall. A caller in Bardera said they had been cut off from access to the river bridge. A caller in Dollow said their farms had been destroyed by river flooding. A caller in Qurdubey said families there were destitute having lost their livestock in the drought and now needed help facing heavy rains.

Health – a caller in Guriel said due to water lying everywhere there was a surge in mosquitoes and people needed nets for protection. A caller in Qardo also complained about mosquitoes and wanted control intervention. Other callers who didn't specify their locations indicated the outbreak of diseases including gastro-related that needed control.

Aid – a caller in El-dher, Galgadud, wanted to know why the $130 cash aid they had been getting from WFP had stopped the last two months.

Livestock – callers in different regions asked for treatment and advice for various livestock diseases and conditions. A female caller in Jibil, M. Juba, said their livestock were coughing. Another female caller in Dusamareb said she thought their goats had CCCP disease.

Rainfall – there were a large number of calls from across the regions about the benefits of the current rainfall. In Togdher, a caller in Doqoshey said their livestock now had fodder and water and were producing good milk. He hoped conflicts in the area would end. A caller in Harweyn, Puntland, said their livestock were healthy and giving birth. A caller in Shimbiro, Galgadud, said their livestock were producing milk and their children were doing well. A female caller in Hodale, Galgadud, said the water catchments had filled up. In M. Shabelle, callers in Balad, Jowhar, and Mahaday said their crops and livestock were improving and people were doing well.

Information – many callers thanked Radio Ergo for their services including provision of weather and risk-related awareness programming.
