

Brief Summary

Noticeable topics of concern among callers this week (6-12 June 2024) included the needs for assistance raised by IDPs in Hirshabelle and Gedo. Also, a number of callers in Galgadud spoke about the impact of clan conflicts that they wanted leaders to settle. Many farmers in earlier flood-hit regions wanted help with crop pests. Whilst the biggest number of calls to the platform was about beneficial rainfall across different regions of the country, several callers in scattered areas called to raise concerns about inadequate rainfall, drought conditions and water shortage. The following summarises the calls by theme.

IDPs/Aid – a caller in El-Jalle, Hiran, said IDPs there faced hardships and were appealing for aid. In Gedo, a caller in Bardera said vulnerable IDPs in the camps needed assistance. A caller in Qurdubey camp said since they had been affected by the recent floods they hadn't received any aid. He said they needed food and healthcare.

Aid – a caller in Bukure village, Galmudug, said they used to get aid under the Bahnano safety net scheme and they needed it back. A caller in Jowhar, Middle Shabelle, said their children were malnourished but the nutritional supplements that should be free were being sold. He said when they visited mother and child health clinics, a carton of PlumpyNut was being sold for $12, and the number of sachets being given out was less than prescribed.

Nutrition – in Adado, Galgadud, a caller saying she was a breastfeeding mother wanted information on where she could access nutritional supplements.

Health – a female caller in Jowhar asked for bed nets to cope with the influx of mosquitoes. A caller in Marodi Jeh, Somaliland, said they needed health centres to be opened there. He also called on the government to repair the water catchment areas.

Conflict – in Galgadud, a female caller in Abudwak said she wanted to speak out about conflict in the area that had caused many deaths. She said intervention was needed to stop it. A caller in Adado urged clan leaders to settle the disputes leading to conflicts. Several other callers in El-dhere, Landher, and Herale wanted the government to intervene to put an end to clan conflicts, which one caller said never seemed to end.

Flood recovery – a caller in Beletweyne, Hiran, said there was a need for better roads in the area so that whenever floods struck people were able to evacuate to safety.

Agriculture – many farmers in formerly flood-hit areas complained of pests ruining their crops. One in Jowhar said they thought the floods had led to the increase in insects and they need advice from experts on how to control them. Another farmer in Baidoa said they had recovered from the floods but were facing infestations of aphids. A caller in Beletweyne wanted advice about how to salvage crops and shift them to another place whenever flooding occurred.

Environment – several callers were concerned about environmental issues, especially the cutting down of trees, which two listeners in Sool and Banadir wanted to be stopped.

Livestock – callers from various regions wanted advice about seasonal livestock conditions including diarrhoea and goat measles, as well as tick infestations. A caller in Siga-dher, Nugal region, asked the Puntland government to provide more land for the livestock market, which was congested due to many sellers ahead of the Eid season.

WASH – in the north, a caller in Doqoshey, Togdher, said they had had little rain and faced drought conditions. A caller in Erigabo, Sanag, called on the Somaliland government to help them with severe water shortage. In Puntland, a caller in Bari said they hadn't had any rain and were short of water. A caller in Mudug said rainfall had been scarce and they lacked water wells and pumps to access water. In Galgadud, a caller in Ado-kibir said their livestock were dying due to drought and water shortage. A caller in Hananbure also said they faced drought. In Jowhar, a caller said a barrel of water cost $3 and people couldn't afford it. A caller in Burhakaba, Bay region, said they hadn't had any rainfall and faced drought conditions.

Rainfall – among those noting rainfall were a number of callers in parts of Sool region, with one saying their goats, camels, and cattle were now doing well. A caller in Karkar, Bari, said they had just received rainfall and livestock would now get pasture. Two callers in Kismayo said the rain had arrived although one worried about the strong winds.

Migration – a caller from an unspecified location said he had lost some of his relatives who drowned in the recent migrant boat disaster off the coast of Bosaso heading for Yemen. He expressed appreciation for Radio Ergo's programmes.
