Weekly Feedback Report	CONTACT ADDRESS: ltu@mediasupport.org Issued: 20 Nov 2026

Brief Summary

Calls to Radio Ergo's nationwide audience feedback platform in the week 12-18 November 2026 indicated beneficial rainfall across many central and southern parts of the country, notably regions in Jubbaland, Hirshabelle, and Galgadud. Several callers in Bari region noted rain, but some said it was scant. Two callers in Jowhar, Middle Shabelle, said their farms had been flooded by the river. With much farming activity ongoing, many called for advice about crop pest control especially from southern regions. The calls also indicated a few persistent pockets of drought and livelihood losses in locations in Togdher, Bari, Hirshabelle, and Gedo, accompanied by high temperatures in Gedo and Middle Shabelle. The following summarises the calls by theme.

Floods – two callers in Jowhar said they had experienced flooding, with one saying their farms were everything for them so they faced difficulties. A caller in Beletweyne, Hiran, wanted updated weather forecasts to keep them abreast of flood risks. A female caller in Abudwak noted people's concern over the risk of flooding and how to cope if it occurred.

IDPs – a caller in Mubarak camp in Dollow, Gedo, appealed for aid saying they faced food and water shortages and lived in poor shelter.

Health – a caller in Bardera, Gedo, said the rain had caused an influx of mosquitoes. Another in an unspecified location said as they lived on their farmland, they were plagued by mosquitoes and needed bed nets. A caller in Baidoa asked about recognising the first symptoms of someone infected with Ebola. (Radio Ergo is broadcasting information about Ebola as part of a public awareness campaign in collaboration with Africa CDC).

Nutrition – two female callers in Abudwak and Beletweyne asked for advice about nutrition and shortage of breast milk. One of the women said her children were all malnourished.

Mental health – several callers were interested in the causes and treatments for stress and anxiety and memory loss. A female caller in Beletweyne was keen to know how to help her elderly mother who was talking without making sense.

Food security – a caller in Abudwak complained that despite the rain, people were destitute and lacked jobs. A caller in Barawe, Lower Shabelle, was pleased that the price of fish had fallen considerably from $3 to $0.5 per kilo.

Conflict – a caller in Baidoa said people were living in fear due to the conflict and insecurity and that all those who could afford to leave the city had gone.

Governance – a caller in Bardera, Gedo, raised the long-standing complaint that the damaged bridge over the river needed reconstructing.

Locusts – one caller in Mudug region said they were concerned by locust swarms destroying their crops. He said the locusts had wreaked havoc and people needed to know how to control them.

Agriculture – farmers calling the weekly farming programme for expert advice had problems with pests and disease damaging a range of crops, including tomatoes and onions, mangoes, lemons, grain and sorghum. A caller in Bay region said as well as advice they needed access to pesticides.

Livestock – a caller in Burhakaba, Bay, complained that ineffective veterinary medicines that could be fake were in circulation. They wanted to know which good products to use to treat their livestock. Other callers noted various diseases including CCPP, foot and mouth, and botulism.

Rainfall – callers in several parts of Togdher region cited rainfall, noting that some areas remained dry. Three female callers in Bari region said their livestock were giving birth as rain had improved conditions, although one of the callers said the rain was scant. In Galgadud, callers in Abudwak, Adado, Balanbale, Godinlabe and Guriel said beneficial rain had filled the water catchments and helped livestock to recover. Callers in the Shabelles also welcomed rain. Among those from Baidoa, one female caller said the farmers' beans and maize crops were thriving. Callers in Buale and Sakow in Middle Juba said they were doing well with the rain. Among several in Kismayo, one caller was thankful that the heavy rain had not caused any adversity. A caller in Lower Juba said their bananas and lemons were almost ready for harvest. In Gedo region, several callers in Bardera said the rain was enough to fill the catchments and for storage, and that their farms were doing well. In Dollow, a few callers mentioned rainfall, although one said it was little and another that dry spots remained.
Drought – in Togdher, a caller in Garadag said livestock were still dying due to drought and water shortage. A caller in Iskushuban in Bari said they needed aid as they were severely affected by drought. In Hiran, a caller in Mahas said they were challenged by drought and conflict. A caller in Mokyo village, M. Shabelle, appealed for aid to help them through drought. In Gedo, several callers complained of intense heat affecting people, farms and livestock. A caller in Dollow said they were facing food shortages.
